Dynamite Theft in Birmingham Is Investigated

By DON MCKEE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Authorities are investigating the theft of a large amount of dynamite several days before twin blasts touched off Negro rioting in this city and threw sparks of racial unrest all over the nation.

Two cases of dynamite were stolen from a storage house prior to the May 11 bombings of a Negro house and motel Sheriff Helvin Bailey disclosed Sunday. Normally, that would be 100 pounds.

"It's a frightening amount," said Bailey. "There is plenty of loose dynamite in this area."

An uneasy calm prevailed during the weekend. Nearly 1,300 law enforcement officers were available for duty and potential trouble areas were under heavy patrol. About 3,000 federal troops, called up by President Kennedy for possible use in Birmingham, were on standby at two Alabama bases.

Gov. George C. Wallace, who has sent about 700 state officers into the city, filed suit Saturday in an effort to block any use of the federal troops.

The President and Wallace met a few hours later at Muscle Shoals, in north Alabama, at a Tennessee Valley Authority anniversary observance. They talked during a helicopter flight to Huntsville, where the President spoke.

"We discussed things briefly," Wallace said later at a news conference. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the discussion was "not unfriendly."

Wallace maintains that state and local authorities are keeping the peace in Birmingham and can put down any disorders that might flare up.

One of the leaders of the desegregation campaign, the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, contended in a talk at a Washington rally that Alabama troopers are trying to "incite Negroes to riot through intimidation and agitation."

In northeast Alabama, 11 persons were arrested for attempting to complete the integration pilot plan William L. Moore. The group included actress Madeleine Sherwood.

They were charged with breach of the peace.

Spa Ministers Elect a Negro

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Rev. Joseph N. Harrison, pastor of the Union Baptist Church in Hot Springs, has been elected president of the Hot Springs Ministerial Alliance. He is the first Negro to serve in the post.

Harrison, who served as vice president of the alliance last year, was chosen by a nominating committee. He defeated the Rev. Joe Phillips, pastor of the Grand Avenue Methodist Church.

The alliance has had Negro members for several years.

Astronaut Plans Day to Relax

By JULES LOH

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—With two days of examinations, questions and confetti behind him, Astronaut Gordon Cooper planned to do absolutely nothing today except relax.

That's something that comes easy to a man who can doze off while perched atop a rocket set to blast him into space.

Asked at a news conference Sunday if he thought his flight concluded Project Mercury, Cooper replied that it was his personal opinion that great gain would come from an extended Mercury flight.

Then he tossed the question to Dr. Robert C. Seamans, associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"We are faced with a decision in the next week or so on another Mercury flight," Seamans said, but said it is quite unlikely another Mercury manned mission will be conducted.

"The longer you keep Mercury personnel working on Mercury flights, the longer you delay putting them on the Gemini program," he said.

Tuesday the Jaconic Oklahoman with the Huck Finn grin will receive the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Distinguished Service medal from President Kennedy at a ceremony in the White House Rose Garden.

Then he will address a joint session of Congress, and the following day will go to New York for a ticker tape parade.

Today Cooper plans only to rest from the one predictable after effect of his 34-hour cosmic adventure—an onrush of adulation from an admiring populace.

His latest taste of it was a homey and heartfelt welcome by the people of Cocoa Beach who turned out Sunday along a 5½-mile stretch of sun drenched highway and waved flags and bunting and beach towels and hollered "Well done, Gordo."

It was one of the largest crowds ever assembled in this neon-lighted sand spit which the astronauts call their home away from home.

The astronaut accepted the plaudits from an open car, waving and grinning his now famous grin. Beside him was his wife, Trudy. Two cars behind were their daughters, Camala, 14, and Janita, 13, smiling in teen-aged embarrassment.

The parade ended at a beach front motel where the girls sat demurely and listened to their father describe his 22-orbit space flight for the benefit of the 700 newsmen who had watched him blast off four days earlier.

In his drawl, Cooper told, orbit by orbit, how he performed his various experiments, made photographs of celestial phenomena and also, much as any other sightseer presented with a spectacular view took snapshots of the magnificent Himalayas.

He told how he was able to see minute detail on the ground more than 100 miles below—a boat and its wake in a river; trucks on a highway; smoke curling from the chimneys of Tibetan villages.

He also described, as matter-of-factly as though it was really nothing at all, how he glided his spacecraft manually back to earth after all the automatic methods had failed.

"I saw the light go on," he said. "And I thought maybe at first I'd just ignore it. But I decided maybe I'd better not. I was afraid it wouldn't go away."

This was the light that signaled the re-entry guidance trouble.

He told also how he catnapped from time to time when the work was done, and how he even caught a few winks during the long countdown before the big Atlas rocket roared off the launching pad.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Col. Charles Maynard, Little Rock District Engineer, said bids would be opened July 11 on the first section of a canal linking the Arkansas and White Rivers in the Arkansas River navigation project. He said cost would be about $3 million with 16 months to complete the project.

Arkansas Arts Center Is Dedicated

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A dream born in 1927 became a reality in Little Rock Saturday with the dedication of the new Arkansas Arts Center.

Dedication ceremonies highlighted a week of activities at the multi-million dollar structure.

Art enthusiasts and dignitaries from the art world were on hand for the dedication.

Little Rock Mayor Byron Morse presented a plaque to the Fine Arts Club of Arkansas. Morse said the club "lit the first candle in 1927 when it was founded to further cultural interest in the state and to start a permanent collection of art for a future museum."

Among the notables who have worked for the construction of the art center are Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller, who personally toured the state and raised $800,000 for the project.

The Rockefellers also contributed financially toward construction of the center.

Members of the news media were invited to a press party Friday night in connection with the center's opening.

Among guests at the formal dedication Saturday were actress Joan Fontaine, recording artist Gordon McRae, James Rorimer, director of New York City's Metropolitan Museum of Art, Sen. and Mrs. J. William Fulbright, and the Rockefellers.

Hundreds of paintings were on display at the center, including 62 paintings loaned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York.

Also on display were sculptures by eleven leading Arkansians, nine Blackthorne Chinese porcelains from the collection of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and 114 pieces entered in the 22nd ceramics show.

Roy Milum, Harrison, Dies Sunday

HARRISON, Ark. (AP)—Roy Warren Milum, 80, who served in the Arkansas Senate longer than anyone else, died Sunday at a Harrison hospital after a long illness.

Milum often was called the dean of the Senate. He served from 1923 to 1945 and returned in 1953 and served until his retirement last year.

A native of Lead Hill and a 1904 graduate of the University of Arkansas, Milum sponsored legislation for the University, other state colleges and the Arkansas Schools for the Deaf and Blind.

The Milum Road Bill, passed in 1957, added 10 to 12 miles from each county to the state highway system.

Milum was a prominent stockholder in hardware stores at Harrison, Fort Smith and Van Buren. He was vice president of the Citizens Bank of Harrison and the Bank of Olney, owner of a mercantile store at Valley Springs, an official of the Farmers Bank and owner of 3,000 to 4,000 acres of farmland.

Survivors include three sons, William James Milum and Roy W. Milum Jr., both of Harrison, and John C. Milum, postmaster at Batesville; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Reid of Point Lookout, Mo., nine grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the First Methodist Church in Harrison. Members of the state legislature will be honorary pallbearers.

Cooper Tells World About Space Flight

By JOHN BARBOUR

Associated Press Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Astronaut Gordon Cooper's space tale of his whirlwind world tour is a study in contrasts:

He saw the bamboo-curtained hear of Red China. He nearly saw his own home, hidden by trees, in Houston, Tex.

He saw things as colossal as the Himalayas, and things as puny as houses in India, trucks, a boat, a train.

He awoke startled from his space sleep, forgetting for a moment where he was. Yet he had the greatest presence of mind in flying his spacecraft back to earth through the roasting and dangerous moments of re-entry.

But somehow in the telling at Sunday's news conference, in Cooper's own relaxed and light style, it all seemed to come out the same.

The first signal of trouble with his automatic pilot was the flashing green of a warning light.

"I thought maybe at first I'd just ignore it, but I decided maybe better not," he said. "I was afraid it wouldn't go away."

"I found that the re-entry (into the earth's denser atmosphere) was easier on the first portion than what we had been practicing in procedures trainer with the computers. Everything went very well on it."

With the calm diagnostic tones of an engineer, he measured the preciseness of each element of his flight. Occasionally his humor caught the situation.

One chore aboard was to transfer to separate containers urine samples collected at various stages of the flight — for later analysis. It would help, he said, to have larger fittings on the transfer pump. It took half an orbit — something like 45 minutes — to complete one pumping operation.

His fellow astronauts, sitting to one side, led the news conference audience in laughter.

He held up a plastic container of brown and yellow dehydrated food, and admitted some difficulty in adding water to it during the flight. What was it? a newsman asked. Pot roast, Cooper answered.

Cooper marveled at the precision of his launch. "I felt as if I was right out on the point of the needle, being put right to the target," he said.

He had no difficulty sleeping in space, save one. He awoke once to find his arms in weightlessness hanging in the cockpit in front of him. "It is rather distracting," he said, especially with the multitude of critical control switches out there in front of him in easy reach. When he slept, his spacecraft was powered down, so the problem wasn't too serious. He added:

"Still it seems like you shouldn't sleep with your arms hanging out that way. It seemed like an odd position."

Oklahoman to Trial for Murder

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Raymond Wood, 21, of Roland, Okla., was to go on trial in Circuit Court at Fort Smith today on a first-degree murder charge in the death of Paul Rush.

The 36-year-old Rush was shot to death May 13, 1962, in the basement of the V&R Sales Co., which he owned.

Frederick Rush, 26, adopted son of the victim, has been convicted in the case and sentenced to life in prison. Carolyn Brown, 20, a native of Booneville, also is charged in the case and is to be tried later.

A hearing was held last Friday on six motions by Sam Sexton Jr., Wood's attorney.

Five of the motions asked for an examination by the defense of various items in the hands of Prosecutor Lyman Mikel. The other motion asked that a Fort Smith private detective be cited for contempt of court for circulating "false rumors about the defendant."

Circuit Judge Paul Wolfe ordered expunged from the record the motion alleging that Chuck Burnside, the detective, had circulated false rumors about Wood.

Wolfe said it was up to the court to determine contempt. He said he would order an investigation.

On the other motions, Sexton was formally overruled on a request for copies of statements of Mrs. Pat Taylor, 24, a key witness for the prosecution in the trial of Frederick Rush. However, Mikel said copies of her statements had been given to Rush's attorneys and probably would be provided again.

Sexton asked for Mrs. Taylor's scrapbook, from which letters had been produced as evidence in the trial of Rush. Wolfe told Sexton to provide specific information as to the items wanted from the book.

Permission was given Sexton to examine clothing worn by Frederick Rush the night of the murder, but Wolfe said clothing worn by Paul Rush had not been preserved.

Sexton also was told that segments of a light bulb broken the night of the shooting had not been kept.

U.S. Common Mart Demand Gains Approval

By CARL HARTMAN

GENEVA (AP)—The European Common Market countries agreed today to American demands for across-the-board tariff cuts. This apparent reversal of position was aimed at ending the deadlock between the world's two greatest trading blocs.

But at the same time the six European countries demanded that in return the United States agree to an automatic formula for adjusting gaps between high American tariffs and lower European ones.

West German Economics Minister Ludwig Erhard claimed credit for the new proposal, which he said he thought would end the deadlock with the United States.

French Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing said "It's for the Americans to say."

The full session of the 73-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trades conference marked time while the Common Markets and the Americans jockeyed for position.

Chairman Hans Schaffner of Switzerland called off an afternoon meeting but agreed to preside at a special evening session of the disputing sides.

Crux of the situation is that ministers of the Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg — insist on reductions in individual U.S. tariffs they considered too high as well as agreed general cuts.

The U.S. delegation has insisted on equal percentage cuts from both sides, with a goal of slashes a shigh as 50 per cent. It wants to open formal bargaining sessions May 6, 1964.

Ernie Davis Succumbs to Leukemia

By LARRY FRIEDMAN

CLEVELAND (AP) — Close friends of Ernie Davis believe the football star knew the end was near, although he was cheerful and uncomplaining to the last.

The 23-year-old star died Saturday in Lakeside Hospital, 36 hours after he entered the hospital for treatment of acute leukemia.

Before going to the hospital, Davis stopped to chat with Arthur Modell, president of the Cleveland Browns.

"His neck was swollen considerably and we all knew what it meant," Modell said. "He was coming by to say good-bye to me and the others." But Davis said only that his throat hurt a little and that he would be out of the hospital in a few days.

Davis became a national hero at Syracuse University. He was the only Negro to win the Heisman Trophy, an honor accorded to the nation's outstanding collegiate football player. That award in 1956 and getting to meet and talk to President Kennedy were his greatest treasures.

He signed a three-year contract for $80,000 with the Cleveland Browns in January, 1962, including a bonus for $15,000. But the deadly blood disease sent him to a hospital while at the All-Star camp on Aug. 1, and he never got to play a game for the National Football League club.

Three months of treatment temporarily arrested the disease, for about six months. During that period Ernie underwent a conditioning program in hopes that he would be able to play for the Browns.

Coch Paul Brown decided, however, that Davis should not play.

The Browns paid him a salary and all the hospital and medical bills—believed to be about $10,000.

Funeral services will be conducted in his home town of Elmira, N.Y., Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Monumental Baptist Church with interment in Woodlawn Cemetery in that city.

Davis, born in New Salem, Pa., Dec. 14, 1939, said recently he

THE STORY: At a neighborhood gathering, people discuss the many strangers in town who are connected with new construction.

VII

Benny Bell rode up the street on his scooter, came into and around the circle of the Howdershell drive, and departed. Within five minutes he was back again. As noisy as he was, we all noticed what he was doing.

"Next time around," Smokey told Lovey, "ask him in."

"I will not!" she said firmly. "He's just haunting."

By then, the group was ready voice as clear as water, "that she was the same woman who called here a while ago, and asked for me."

We all turned to look at her, startled. "Was it a woman?" I asked.

"Yes, Henrietta answered the phone, and told me that she asked to speak to 'Dr. Howdershell's daughter.' But when I came in to the phone, she didn't say anything at all. Finally I hung up. It was weird."

We all agreed that it was.

"Keyes," said Smokey, now looking concerned, "did you tell this woman — at the lot, I mean — that you were my son?"

"No, sir, I didn't. I — well — I had an odd feeling. As Mrs. Hinton says, some of these new people in town say and do funny things."

"Under ordinary circumstances," said Dick Hinton thoughtfully, "we'd know about such a stranger in town, who she was, where she was staying. But these days, with so many new people —"

"Yes, we would know," said Smokey briskly. "Lovey, don't you have homework to do?"

She looked across at him, outraged. "Patty is a guest, Dad," she said reprovingly.

"I know it. Doesn't she have homework?"

The girls giggled and got off the double chaise.

Though he maintained his usual calm, Smokey was bothered by what Keyes had said about the woman at the parking lot. I could tell. He smoked his pipe in short spurts that made the bowl glow red, and his left hand fingered the scar on his cheek. I watched him, wishing I could say or do something to reassure him. I was realizing that he had been bothered, much this same way, quite often lately. I could think of times, instances, and I wished even more that I could find a way to show him —

All I could think of then, all I did, was to scramble to my feet and say I'd help him clean the stove and put the dishes into the washer.

"Was she prett y? deal?" ksd. Well," said Keyes, "I guess maybe she was. Made up quite a lot. Eye shadow, and all that. Her clothes were a bit too — well — Her skirt was short, and tight, you know, and she had lots of beads and things. Really high, spike heels. I noticed them because the hospital wishes women wouldn't wear them on their floors."

Some of us laughed a little. "What did she ask you about me?" Smokey prodded.

"Oh —" Keyes looked sorry that he'd ever mentioned the incident. "She asked me if you worked at that hospital," she said. "Is there a Dr. Howdershell working at the hospital?" First, she asked if I worked there.

"I hope you gave her a qualified answer," drawled Smokey, but I noticed the way his fingers now gripped into the cloth of his trouser-knee.

"I said I helped out in my free time," Keyes answered, smiling at his father. "I told her you were on the staff. Then she asked where you lived, and if you were a good doctor — things like that."

"The dame probably needed a doctor," said Kay Johnson, drolly.

"No, she already had Smokey's name," Betty Hinton reminded him.

Immigrant Has Sympathy of Americans

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK — The average kindly American tends to feel sympathy for the immigrant who comes to the U.S., unable to speak English. This is natural and good.

In literally thousands of cases, however, the non-speak-English immigrant is vastly more successful than the average kindly American.

Why should this be? Because our society is based on a theory of minimum work for maximum pay, and the foreign-born can understand that about as well as he grasps five-syllable words. He generally works twice as hard as his native-born neighbor to compensate for his strangeness.

Even more interesting is the phenomenon of the man of foreign tongue who rises to great heights in the field of the American arts — the theatre and literature — where a knowledge of the English language is essential. For years, for example, Hollywood's top screenwriters have been men who came to this country with little or no ability to speak, much less write, dialogue in the American idiom.

"I never took lessons in English," says one of the most successful of these. "The way I learned English was by going to three double features a week, for 10 cents each, which was all I could afford back in the thirties. I learned language from Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable, you might say. And they often were reciting language from scripts given to them by immigrants who had fled Europe during World War I.

I.A.L. Diamond is his name. He's one of the top screenplay artists in Hollywood ("Love in The Afternoon," "Some Like It Hot," which won him an oscar, "The Apartment," "One, Two, Three"). He came to New York in 1929, at the age of nine, from Ungheni, Romania, and settled in Brooklyn, N.Y., with his father a merchant.

"In school," he says, "the only thing I could manage without problems, because of the language, was mathematics. We decided, in that case, I'd better try to be an engineer.

"But then I discovered movies. Better than Berlitz. By the time I graduated from high school, I'd won the English Medal.

"I have a philosophy — when you have to learn a language late in life, you're more attuned to the nuances of it. You hear things in a way the native American never hears them. Dramatic phrases — they stick in your ear, rather than being taken for granted. I don't know, but it seems when you start speaking a native tongue at the age of two, you take it as such a matter of course you develop a tin ear to its nuances."

Diamond — who is physically as long and drawn out as his scenarios never are — is living proof of his theory. After high school, still planning a major in math, he enrolled in Columbia University. But during his freshman year, he wrote the famed Columbia varsity show, it was such a smash, he was assigned to write the next three annual shows — as well as becoming editor of the Columbia Daily Spectator. Before he was even graduated, on the basis of these accomplishments he had a contract in his pocket, declaring him a junior writer for Paramount studios.

"Those were the days," he remembers, relieved that it's only a memory, "when 130 writers might be working on 40 pictures a year for a studio. It was like assigning a committee to write a symphony." But Diamond plugged along, patiently, not getting much credit, until Billy Wilder discovered him and asked him to collaborate on "Love in The Afternoon." Today he has just finished "Irma La Douce," in which he is again co-author and associate producer with Wilder.

I.A.L. Diamond (the "I" is for Isidore, and "A" and "L" are for the same reason as the "S" in Harry S. Truman) is a top dog now, though the public is little aware of his name.

He's glad he's not a so-called "celebrity." "Most so-called celebrities they don't have time to do any work. Work is the way you have a feeling of accomplishment. Seeing your name in the paper —

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — More than half (56.9 per cent) of the 1,423 persons who answered a Junior Chamber of Commerce opinion survey favor legalizing gambling in Hot Springs.

But 79.8 per cent said they do not favor open illegal gambling such as the resort city now has.

The Jaycees distributed 5,000 opinion questionnaires in February. Results were announced this week.

I don't feel any satisfaction in it."

Another difference, perhaps, between the naturalized and the native-born citizen?

TRANSPLANTED FAMILY FACES PROBLEM

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: We're strangers in a strange land, having moved from another state. After six months cooped up in a mobile home, my husband and I are fit to be tied.

He lolls in the "living room" rattling his false teeth and watching TV. I sit in the bedroom munching candy and reading. But the walls are paper thin and I find it difficult to concentrate.

My husband is a good man at heart, kind to our two sons, doesn't whoop it up with pals and gives me his pay check each week.

But there's a catch, I've got to put half of it, $50 in his savings account, then run the house, pay bills and feed and clothe us. Our sons do a better job of adjusting than we.

The other night I told my husband I felt like leaving. He said, "Leave!" Can you beat that and us married 17 years?

True, we did separate once before after he bashed me in the face and tried to burn off my hair. When I left he made like committing suicide, said he couldn't live without me so I took him back and never had any more trouble till now. We are both 36. Will he grow worse as he grows older? I would do anything rather than hurt him.—Distraught

Dear Distraught: Too much togetherness is probably at the root of your troubles. Even strangers in a strange land need to separate occasionally.

Your boys are better at adjusting because their school life consumes much of their time and energy. You, too, might go to school again, taking adult education courses (your husband could join you and working with the P.T.A.)

While I don't think school and church are the only means of enriching one's social life, both institutions usually welcome a cheerful doer, and by steering a share of your thoughts unselfishly toward others you will become a better wife and mother. If you give, you shall get.

You might want to enter local politics. As a newcomer you may not be able to get in very deep right away. But as a citizen who will be voting and paying taxes (if not directly, then as part of your rent), it will benefit you to learn as much as you can about your new community.

In a family of four, you may have many common goals, such as advanced education for the boys, eventual home ownership, life insurance, even a trip to your home town. Use feminine diplomacy, also known as tact, when you discuss financial plans with your husband. It's amazing that you are saving half his salary! The savings should go toward things you all want.

His chronic TV-watching may be a symptom of boredom. If you are not able to hold his interest, someone else may try.

In any case, slow down on the candy or you'll be rattling your own false teeth and, above all, don't make false threats about leaving home.

My leaflets, "The Ideal Wife" and "Ideal Husband," could be helpful. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for them.

Dear Helen: Don't you think it very bad manners to take a dog to a neighbor's home without permission? Our dog, whom we love, lives with our cows, ponies and cats. How can we get our friends to leave their dog home when they come calling on us? —Disgusted

Dear Disgusted: Suggest to your friends that their dog might be happier romping in the yard with your dog than stuck indoors with human companions. If they don't take the hint, then register polite disapproval of their canine's impertinence.

Dear Helen: My cousin, a boy and my girl friend are the same age and would like to meet. The only way they can come in contact with each other is by telephone or mail. He lives so far away and only gets to visit our home once a week. My girl friend lives quite a distance in the opposite direction. I'm at my wit's end trying to bring them together. Have you any ideas? —Desireful

Dear Desireful: If your cousin visits you once a week, why can't you arrange for your girl friend to be on hand at the same time? If the two principals want to meet, your problem is quite simple. Mere geography should not come between them. My greatest success as a matchmaker was scored when I was summering in Massachusetts. The boy was in North Carolina and the girl in ing the weekend recess of the 73-nation ministerial conference of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade. The conference is trying to set the stage for bargaining next year on tariff reductions. The deadlock between the United States and the Common Market 15th major league to reach the threatened to hold up the bargaining sessions, which the United States wants to start May 6, 1964. The U.S. goal is across-the-board tariff cuts of as much as 50 per cent.

A Common Market official said no date could be fixed for bargaining talks until the United States and the trade bloc agree on an approach. He said the Common Market would agree to a date if the United States consents to handle the high tariff problem on the same level as its Maurice Brasseur, Belgian minister of foreign trade, conveyed the market group's decision to Christian A. Herter, President Kennedy's chief negotiator at the GATT talks. The talks wind up Tuesday.

The U.S. proposal calls for "substantial equal linear tariff reductions, with limited exceptions." In short, the United States wants nearly all tariffs slashed by the same percentage. At France's insistence the Common Market countries contended that high U.S. tariffs should be slashed by greater amounts than low European tariffs.

American negotiators rejected this as a violation of the U.S. Trade Expansion Act of 1962, which gave the President the broadest powers in history to cut American tariffs.

The Nelson-Hill Post 427 and Auxiliary will send five girls to the second session of Wonder Girls State June 2-6, at A.M.&N. College, Pine Bluff, Arkansas, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Arkansas.

According to Mr. C. G. Carmichael, Post Commander and Mrs. Odessa Bradley, President of the Auxiliary, the following girls will attend Girls State: Misses Jean Briggs, Mattie Rutherford, Merleann Williams, Callie Hicks, and Shirley Holt.

13 Charged for Bomb Attacks
GENOA, Italy (AP)—Thirteen persons were arrested in this port city today, charged with organizing antileftist bomb attacks and trying to revive black-shirt Fascist youth brigades.
Police said the 13—the oldest 31 and nine of them under 20—are members of the extreme rightist "Young Italy" organization. Authorities blamed them for recent bomb-throwing against local headquarters of leftist political parties and leaflet scattering.
Italy's postwar constitution outlawed the Fascist party and banned any use of the name, symbols or salutes of the old Fascist party. Italy's postwar Fascist party calls itself the Italian Social Movement.

officers, police force, court sessions and city councils, counties and state are set up for practical purposes with elective and appointive officials conducting the affairs of government.
Registration will start at 11:00 a.m., Sunday, June 2, 1963.
When these girls return they will execute as many of things as possible that they learned with local girls.

Travs Split Pair With Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Arkansas Travelers split a doubleheader with Jacksonville Sunday, but still gained a half-game on Atlanta in the Southern Division standings of the International League.
Arkansas won the first game 1-0 behind the pitching of Paul Brown, but lost the second 5-2 to home runs by Willie Tasby and Harry Chiti of the Suns.
In other games, Richmond defeated Atlanta 11-1. Syracuse split a doubleheader from Toronto 6-4 and 2-1. Buffalo split with Rochester, winning the first game 13-4 and losing the second 6-1. Atlanta, leading the Southern Division, is one game ahead of Arkansas. Indianapolis is third, 1 1/2 games back of the Travelers.
Richie Allen provided Arkansas' margin of victory in the first game, homering in the fourth inning. Brown twirled a four-hitter. The Crackers and Buffalo held most identical percentage records as they remained on top of their respective divisions.
Four home runs—two by Don Buddin and one each by Fred Hopke and Joe Durham—proved too much for Atlanta. Righthander Jack Cullen won his first game of the season for Richmond.

Faul, Malone
Casting Spells
in American

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill Faul, a 23-year-old Detroit bonus baby who relies on hypnosis to defy superstition, and Boston's wand-waving Frank Malone are casting a spell over the American League.
Faul, who pitches with the aid of hypnosis yet wears No. 13 on his uniform, had the batters in something of a trance Sunday as he checked Washington on three hits enroute to a 5-1 victory in his first major league start.
Malzone, meanwhile, continued to hypnotize the pitchers, bringing his average up to a league-leading .356 with six hits, including three homers, and a half-dozen runs batted in as Boston held its slim grip on the top spot by splitting a doubleheader with Kansas City.
Malzone, right-handed swinging third baseman hitting at a .462 clip in the last 11 games, drove in five runs with a pair of homers and two singles as the Red Sox won the opener 7-3. The A's turned the tables, 9-7, in the nightcap.
The other teams all split. Baltimore edged Chicago 4-3 before the White Sox won 4-3 in 10 innings and remained in a tie with the Orioles for second place, .011 points behind Boston. The Los Angeles Angels defeated New York 6-2 but the Yankees came back and took the nightcap 10-4. Cleveland won 6-4, then lost to Minnesota 7-6.
National League leading San Francisco split with Philadelphia, losing 3-0 before winning 6-5, and the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers swept a pair from the New York Mets 10 and 42 in 13 innings. Chicago's Cubs beat Milwaukee 32 but the Braves took the second game 82. Cincinnati walloped St. Louis 106 and Pittsburgh blanked Houston 50.
Faul first said during spring training that he had been having sessions with a hypnotist. He admits the sessions have continued recently.
"He suggested to me to relax out on the mound, Faul explained. It worked against the Senators. Ken Retzer's two-out single in the fourth inning was the only hit until the ninth when Jim King and Marv Breeding singled against the former University of Cincinnati star. Al Kaline homered for the Tigers while Bill Bruton tied a major league record when he doubled in his first four times at bat.
Malzone's first game hitting gave Bill Monbouquette all the support he needed to even his record at 4-4 with late relief help from Dick Radatz.
Two-run homers by George Alusik and Ed Charles powered the A's to the nightcap victory despite homers by Boston's Chuck Schilling and Gary Geiger.
Robin Roberts pitched a five-hitter for the Orioles' first game victory and brought his career strikeout total to 2,002—only the 15th major leaguer to reach the 2,000 mark.
Pete Ward tripled in the 10th inning to drive in the winning run in the nightcap, a tight struggle that saw the shutout innings streak of Chicago's Ray Herbert ended at 38 when John Orsino homered in the third inning.
A three-run homer by Albie Pearson and a two-run shot by rookie Bob Perry in the opener ended the Angels four-game losing streak and cut off the Yankees' victory string at five. Ken McBride went the distance for the triumph, allowing only seven hits.
The Yanks wrapped up the second game early, bombing Bo Belinsky, now 1-7, for eight runs in the first two innings. Clete Boyer homered for the Yankees while Leon Wagner hit his 11th for the Angels, off Ralph Terry, who squared his record at 4-4.
Pete amos won the opener for the Indians despite homers by Zoilo Versalles, Jim Hall and Earl Battey. Ramos rapped a two-run single that capped a five-run fourth inning rally.
Joe Adcock drove in six runs with two homers and a single for the Indians in the second game, but Lenny Green's two-run homer in the ninth brought Minnesota its victory.

Brooks Sets
New Record
in Low Hurdle

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Meet of Champions, paced by a blistering hurdles duel and a 14 footpole vault, brought down eight records in Little Rock Saturday night.
Ken Sharp of Fort Smith became the first Arkansas high school athlete to soar above the 14-foot barrier in the vault—just two feet below the cherished 16-foot level.
M. P. Blackburn of Helena and Elwood Brooks of Mineral Springs split the hurdles races in two blazing dashes. Blackburn cleared the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.2 seconds, breaking Brooks' meet record set last year and tying his own state record set this year.
Brooks, who remarked later that he "had to have this one," came back in the 180-yard low hurdles with a sizzling 19 flat—the best time ever in Arkansas. Brooks was second in the highs, Blackburn was second in the lows. Brooks' low hurdles time broke the meet record Blackburn set last year.
Chuck Hemingway of Little Rock Central ran the mile in 4:26.9, also an all-time best. It bettered the state record of 4:27.7 he set two weeks previously and bettered the meet record set by Jim Cobb of McGehee in 1959.
Central's team reached home in 42.6 seconds in the 440-yard relay for the fifth all-time best effort in Arkansas.
The Tigers also ripped up the meet record in the mile relay with a 4:26.9 clocking, although they had a faster time earlier this year.
Jonesboro's Tommy Sain heaved the shot 55-0 for a new meet record and Eddie Pruitt of Searcy broke the broad jump standard with a leap of 22-3/4. That wound up the record-breaking, but even so, performances in all other events were outstanding.

U.S. Getting
Beat at Own Game

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Once again the United States is getting beaten at its own game—basketball.
The American team virtually was knocked out of contention in the seven-nation competition for the world championship Saturday night when it was edged by Russia 75-74.
That loss was the second in three games for the squad from the home of basketball. Yugoslavia stunned the United States 75-73 on Thursday night's opening program of the fourth world tournament.
Yugoslavia shot to the top of the standings Saturday night with a 3-0 record on an 85-74 victory over Italy and faces defending champion Brazil tonight. Brazil and Russia are 2-0 in the six-game round robin. France is 1-2 along with the United States. Italy is 0-2 and Puerto Rico 0-3.

Brooks Sets
New Record
in Low Hurdle

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Meet of Champions, paced by a blistering hurdles duel and a 14 footpole vault, brought down eight records in Little Rock Saturday night.
Ken Sharp of Fort Smith became the first Arkansas high school athlete to soar above the 14-foot barrier in the vault—just two feet below the cherished 16-foot level.
M. P. Blackburn of Helena and Elwood Brooks of Mineral Springs split the hurdles races in two blazing dashes. Blackburn cleared the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.2 seconds, breaking Brooks' meet record set last year and tying his own state record set this year.
Brooks, who remarked later that he "had to have this one," came back in the 180-yard low hurdles with a sizzling 19 flat—the best time ever in Arkansas. Brooks was second in the highs, Blackburn was second in the lows. Brooks' low hurdles time broke the meet record Blackburn set last year.
Chuck Hemingway of Little Rock Central ran the mile in 4:26.9, also an all-time best. It bettered the state record of 4:27.7 he set two weeks previously and bettered the meet record set by Jim Cobb of McGehee in 1959.
Central's team reached home in 42.6 seconds in the 440-yard relay for the fifth all-time best effort in Arkansas.
The Tigers also ripped up the meet record in the mile relay with a 4:26.9 clocking, although they had a faster time earlier this year.
Jonesboro's Tommy Sain heaved the shot 55-0 for a new meet record and Eddie Pruitt of Searcy broke the broad jump standard with a leap of 22-3/4. That wound up the record-breaking, but even so, performances in all other events were outstanding.

U.S. Getting
Beat at Own Game

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Once again the United States is getting beaten at its own game—basketball.
The American team virtually was knocked out of contention in the seven-nation competition for the world championship Saturday night when it was edged by Russia 75-74.
That loss was the second in three games for the squad from the home of basketball. Yugoslavia stunned the United States 75-73 on Thursday night's opening program of the fourth world tournament.
Yugoslavia shot to the top of the standings Saturday night with a 3-0 record on an 85-74 victory over Italy and faces defending champion Brazil tonight. Brazil and Russia are 2-0 in the six-game round robin. France is 1-2 along with the United States. Italy is 0-2 and Puerto Rico 0-3.

Hurlers Pace
Dodgers to a
Double Win

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

In a drive triggered and powered by golden-armed Sandy Koufax and sustained by star finisher Ron Perranoski, the Los Angeles Dodgers have left-handed their way to within one length of the lead in the National League race. Masterful pitching by the two southpaws paced the Dodgers to a doubleheader sweep Sunday over the New York Mets. Koufax fired a two-hitter for a 1-0 triumph in the opener and Perranoski registered seven scoreless innings of relief in winning the second game 4-2 on Frank Howard's two-run homer in the 13th.

The twin victories made it six straight for the Dodgers, who have won nine of their last 10 and 11 of 13 in a push that leaves them just one game behind San Francisco's first-place Giants.

The Giants salvaged a doubleheader split with Philadelphia when Felipe Alou homered with one out in the ninth for a 6-5 second game decision. Cal McLish blanked San Francisco 3-0 on five hits in the first game.

Elsewhere in the NL—the Milwaukee Braves coasted to an 8-2 romp over Chicago behind old master Warren Spahn after being edged 3-2 by the Cubs and Dick Ellsworth; Frank Robinson and Jerry Lynch led Cincinnati over St. Louis 10-6; and Bob Friend pitched Pittsburgh to a 5-0 victory over Houston that ended the Pirates' losing string at five games.

In the American League, the race stood still with four doubleheader splits.
Boston beat Kansas City 7-3, then lost 9-7; the Chicago White Sox nipped Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings after losing by the same score; the New York Yankees belted Los Angeles 10-4 following a 6-2 loss to the Angels; and Cleveland and Minnesota divided, the Indians taking the first game 6-4 and the Twins winning the second 7-6.

In the AL's only single game, Detroit whipped Washington 6-1. Alou won for the Giants when he tagged Ryne Duren with one out in the last of the ninth. The Phils had drawn even in the top of the inning with Jim Lemon's pinch double driving in the tying run. Bob Bolin won in relief.

McLish handed the Giants their second straight shutout in the opener. Doubles by Tony Taylor, Tony Gonzalez and Don Demeter gave Philadelphia two runs in the first inning against loser Jack Fisher.
Spahn was touched for 11 Cubs hits, including Jim Schaffer's homer, but still won his sixth of the year and the 33rd of his marvelous career. Eddie Mathews had a homer and three runs batted in for Milwaukee.

The Cubs racked Lew Burdette, for three runs on four hits and a walk in the opening inning of the first game and Ellsworth made the lead stand up. Hank Aaron delivered the Milwaukee runs, clouting his 13th homer with one on in the eighth.

Lynch and Robinson batted in three runs each for the Reds, who clinched it against the Cardinals with a five-run sixth. Joe Nuxhall went all the way for Cincinnati, lasting out a 15-hit St. Louis barrage. Bob Gibson yielded all 10 Cincinnati runs.

Friend had to pitch out of several jams against the Colts, finishing with a nine-hitter. Bill Mazeroski singled in the first Pirate run in the fourth off Dick Farrell and later hit a two-run single.
